PC Statement for Steven Anthony Spoon (05.21.1985)

In August 2018 SPD began investigating a series of incidents that occurred at various residences located within the City of Scottsdale. The calls for service were in reference to an unknown white male who was entering the backyards and looking into the windows of the residences. The common thread in the locations was that there were one or more teenage females that were living there and present at the time of the incidents.

The following DRs are involved in this investigation:

The following is a summary of this investigation:

On 8.25.18 Scottsdale PD officers responded to a 911 call for service in north Scottsdale reference an unknown male who was looking into the bathroom window of a residence where there were multiple 14-year-old teen girls changing their clothes. The residence's surveillance video showed an unknown male subject in the backyard sneaking around the exterior of the residence, specifically the patio, near the 14-year-old female's bedroom and bathroom. The male subject appeared to remain inside the backyard for about 5-10 minutes before being caught. The teens reported to officers they heard tapping noises coming directly from outside the victim's bedroom. Upon review of the surveillance, the unknown male is seen on video walking away from the teen's bedroom and later returning. He is seen wearing something pulled up around his face as a means to cover or hide his face, ultimately making him unidentifiable. At one point within the surveillance, the male is seen crawling around the patio near the teen's bedroom windows. At approximately the 2350 hours mark on the video, the unknown male is caught looking into the teen's bathroom as one of the teens is about to change. The male subject then jumps the west wall of the residence and runs down the driveway. This male subject is described as

In July of 2019, a concerned citizen called into Scottsdale 911 and stated they saw a suspicious male get out of a truck and walk into the neighborhood. The plate provided by the citizen returned to Spoon. The GPS data showed him at several residences on this night, near where his vehicle was parked. The vehicle was gone upon police arrival.

In one incident that occurred in July of 2019, it was learned there were five teen girls at a residence for a sleepover. They reported to the mom that they thought their picture was being taken from outside the residence while they were inside the residence, in the bathroom. Spoon's GPS data placed him at this residence for an extended period of time.

There are still numerous residences that have not been contacted that are located within GPS data obtained from Spoon's devices. These homeowners have not yet been contacted but will be contacted at a later date through further the investigation.

A search warrant was granted to track Spoon's location while gathering evidence for this investigation. On 10.16.19, Spoon drove to north Scottsdale, parked in a gym parking lot and then entered a neighborhood on foot. Detectives were able to track him into the neighborhood and later located Spoon jumping over a wall, out of the backyard of a residence. Spoon proceeded to run from SPD detectives. The detectives used clear, verbal commands to identify themselves as the police. They directed Spoon to stop and obey their commands. Spoon proceeded to run through desert brush and river rocks near the residence in an attempt to get away from detectives. Detectives were able to contact Spoon and during their attempts to take him into custody, he proceeded to resist their commands to put his arms behind his back. He twisted and kicked his legs and held his right arm under his body, not allowing the detectives to handcuff him and take him into custody. At 2150 hours, Spoon was placed under arrest. At 2155 hours he was read his Miranda Rights and explained he was practicing his Parkour skills and jumped into a backyard when he saw vehicles in the area and got scared.

In the jail, Spoon was interviewed again, and he eventually admitted that he uses a fake Snap Chat account where he poses as a young teen girl to friend other teen girls. He stated the girls he attempt to friend and have successfully friended through the social media account, had their location services "on", which allowed him to identify their locations. With this, he was able to travel to their residence. He stated he uses Parkour to go into the neighborhoods and then enters the backyards, front yards and side yards of victims with the purpose of looking into windows in an attempt to see the girls changing or showering. Spoon said it is "parkour with a motive" and it gives him a sexual stimulation that he later uses for sexual gratification. Spoon admitted that he never meant to harm or scare anyone. He stated he would never have gone further than looking into the windows. He stated he often had to be on top of walls or contorted into spaces in order to see into the windows, to view the teen girls in a state of undress. Spoon is "haunted" by what he learned the original victim and her family felt and realizing he may have scared them. Spoon stated he wants to get help that he is willing to do what he needs to get therapy and be able to stop his addiction.

Spoon advised detectives he realized he was unable to control his urges and believes that an electronic ankle monitoring device could be used to hold him accountable and keep him from reoffending. He stated he would not have stopped without this arrest.
